

WYCOMBE'S chances of winning the Berger Isthmian League title, which have see-sawed so often lately, took what looks like a final dip at Leatherhead on Saturday with a 1-1 draw.

But just how the Blues failed to take the vital maximum points is a mystery. They spent nearly all the second half around, if not actually in, the Leatherhead penalty area, and will have to look back on a Gary Lester blunder, missed chances and a last minute no-penalty decision, as costing them dearly.

Goalkeeper Lester was a doubtful starter before the match because of back trouble — and probably wished he hadn't played. He has saved Wycombe so many times this season and it was unfortunate that he should make such an elementary error as dropping a simple cross at such a vital time.

But he did, and Andy Bushell could not believe his luck and stabbed the ball home from three yards in the 50th minute.

Problems

If nothing else it made Wycombe play as if the league championship might rest on the final result. Within two minutes they were level. Simon Dexter, playing at right back in place of Paul Birdseye, who had moved over to the left for the suspended George Borg, sent over a teasing near post cross.

It caused problems for the Leatherhead defence who had not fully recovered when the ball came back again. Terry Scott flicked it on for Mick Holifield to put the ball home.

Wycombe had the ball in the back of the net again, but this time it was ruled off-side. Ken Wilson, who deserved a goal more than anybody for his tireless running, fired home after Scott had hit the post when the goal was at his mercy.

The linesman and referee concluded Scott was in an off-side position as Wilson shot.

A minute from time the referee, Mr Topping, made another vital decision that went against Wycombe. Terry Scott burst into the Leatherhead area and for being held back by defender Micky Cooke Mr Topping awarded an indirect free kick. Howard Kennedy hit the wall with his effort.

Committed

In the five minutes or so injury time played (for no apparent reason), Mick Holifield rifled a shot goal-wards, only to see goalkeeper Peter Caswell block it with his body.

Caswell had already denied Kennedy and Scott with tips around his right hand post. Scott had turned and volleyed in the opening minutes of the second half, and then Kennedy picked the side to which Caswell had committed himself following a fine run by the Wycombe man.

Although at the end of the day it was points his side needed, Mike Keen must have been happy with the commitment of his side, despite a slow start.

Earlier kick-off

THE kick-off time of Wycombe's final league encounter of the season at Bromley on Saturday has been brought forward one hour to 2pm to allow the Blues players to get back in time for a special tribute dinner to Jock Sheppard the same evening.

The long-serving Wycombe groundsman and one time physiotherapist is being honoured by a special function in Maidenhead, which has been organised by mid-field player Howard Kennedy.

If Slough win at home to Sutton United tonight (Tuesday), then Wycombe's title challenge will be out of reach. However Enfield would still be able to catch them.
